

Integrated Machine Tool Park (IMTP) at Tumakuru in Karnataka (India)

The Government of Karnataka in association with Department of Heavy Industry, Ministry of Heavy Industry & Public Enterprises, Government of India, the State Government is developing an exclusive Integrated Machine Tool Park (IMTP) in 529 acres of land at Tumakuru, Karnataka (India). This would be an integral part of Government of India supported Tumakuru Industrial Node on the Chennai-Bengaluru Industrial Corridor and it is located about 90 kms from Begaluru and Bengaluru International Airport.

The park is expected to be ready by March, 2019. 158 industrial plots of various dimension have been formed in this park.

The State Government of Karnataka (India) would like to have participation from foreign companies or investors, who are engaged in manufacturing of machine tools by setting up their units in this park. Besides this, the common amenities, attractive incentives and concessions are available to the Machine Tools investors as per the State Industrial Policy 2014-19. Information in this regard may also be seen on the website (<https://kum.karnataka.gov.in>). Online application could also be made through this website.
